Multiply Group Announced 337% YoY Increase in Net Profit Excluding Fair Value Changes for Q3 2023

Multiply Group announced a net profit excluding fair value changes of AED 331 million for Q3 2023. This marks a significant 337% increase from AED 76 million reported in the same quarter of 2022. In Q3, 2023, the Group's net profit, including fair value changes in investments, stands at AED 145.77 million.

The Group's Q3 2023 revenue of AED 351.8 million is a 23.82% YoY growth driven by the organic growth across its 4 core verticals (+9% YoY) and the consolidation of Media 247 and LVL effective 1 July 2023. The gross profit margin rose to 50.1%, reflecting an improvement of 128 basis points from Q3 2022.

This growth was bolstered by dividend income amounting to AED 194.37 million from the Group's public portfolio and an increased share of profit to reflect the change in the functional currency of the Turkish JV Kalyon from Turkish Lira to USD.

Samia Bouazza, Group Chief Executive Officer and Managing Director at Multiply Group, commented: "Our Q3 2023 results highlight our Group's continual growth, with net profit excluding fair value changes soaring to AED 331 million, rising 337% from the same period last year. As we continue to diversify our asset portfolio and prepare selected verticals for IPO, we are also making significant strides investing and embedding new innovations and technologies to augment operations across our verticals."

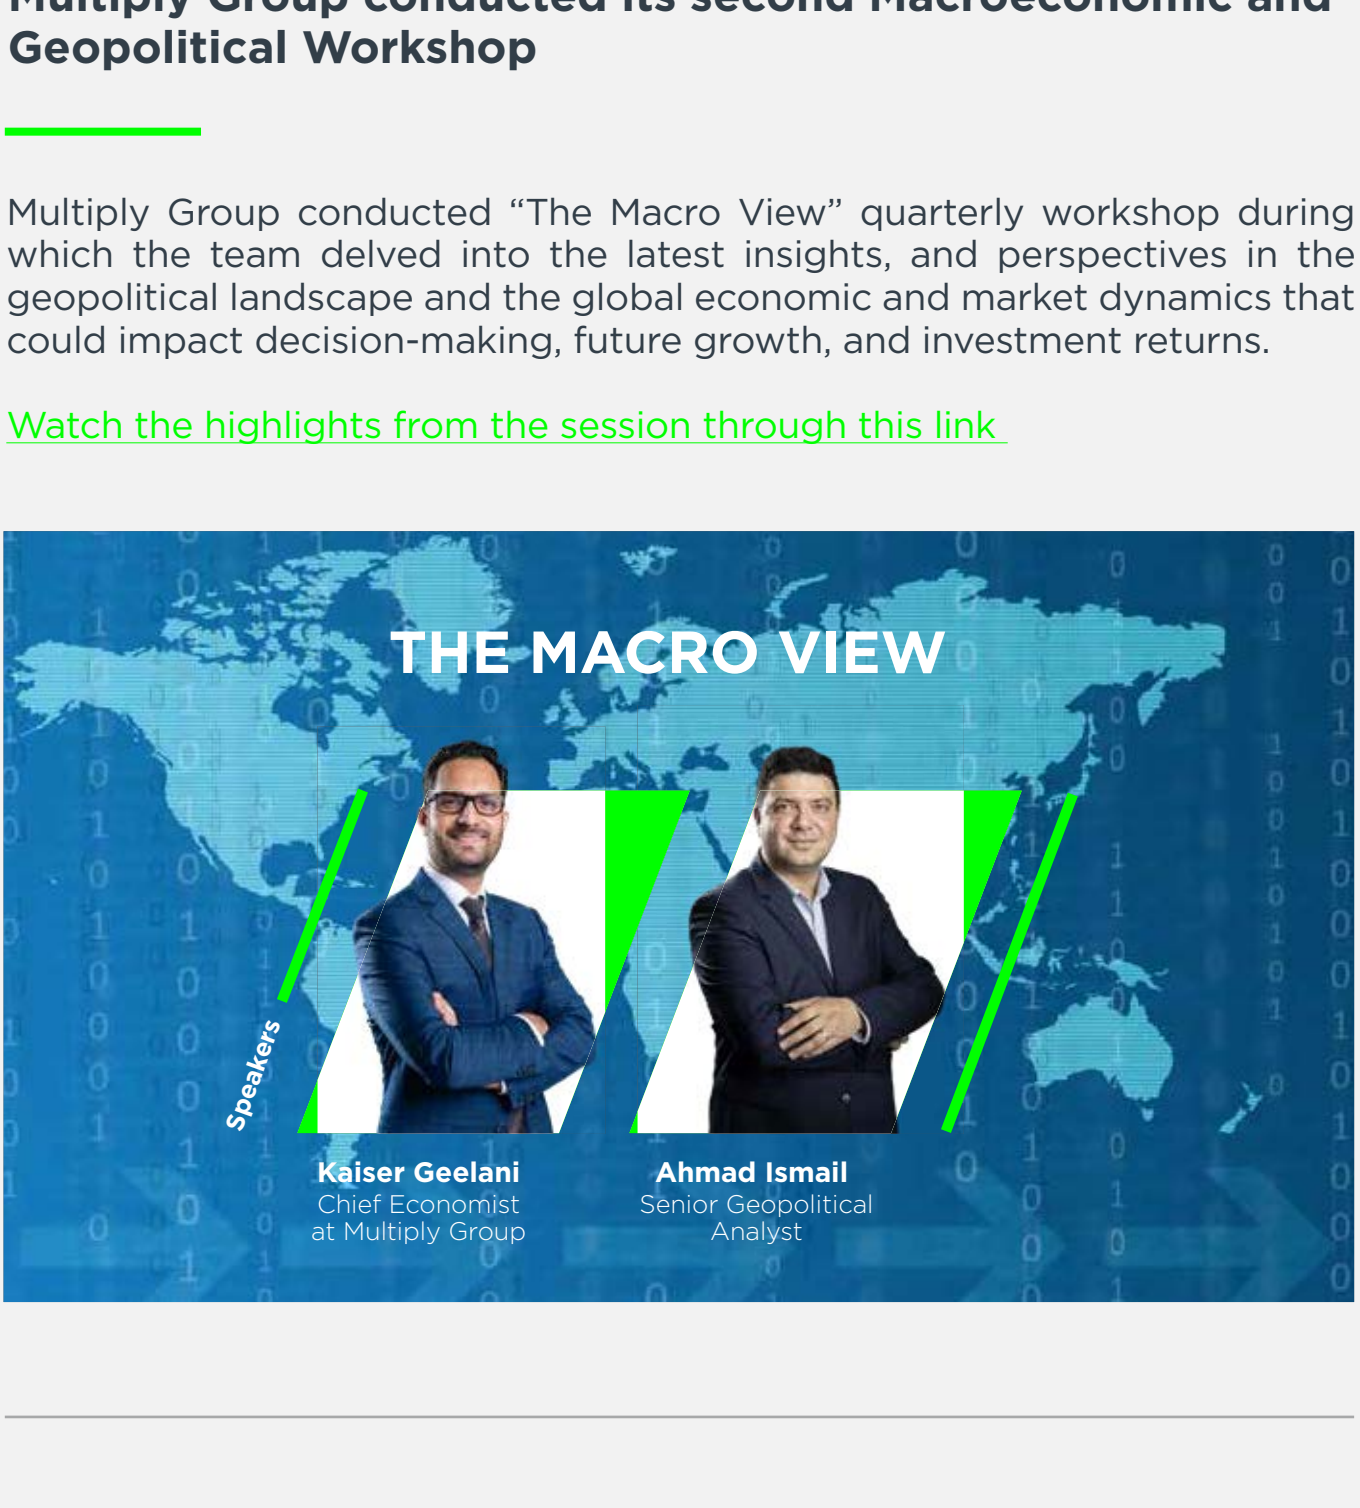

In the first nine months of 2023, the Group's year to date net profit excluding fair value changes rose to AED 811.17 million, a 199% YoY growth.

Multiply Group remains poised to capitalize on emerging value-accretive acquisition opportunities worldwide, spanning its operating verticals and investment arm. The Group boasts a robust cash position of AED 1.65 billion, favorable debt-to-equity and debt-to-assets ratios, and access to over AED 4 billion in financing capacity.

With its dual investment arms, Multiply and Multiply+, the Group continues to demonstrate its financial prowess, targeting lucrative opportunities across a spectrum of asset classes. Multiply's current investment verticals encompass Mobility, Energy and Utilities, Media and Communications, and Beauty and Wellness. Meanwhile, Multiply+ remains sector-agnostic, aiming for double-digit returns across asset classes. Under Multiply+, the public market portfolio is currently valued at AED 33.28 billion, compared to an initial investment of AED 15.43 billion.

On the sustainability front, Sustainabilityx, a global leader in environmental, social and governance (ESG) rating and research, has rated Multiply Group's risk level at 15.8. MARKET MONITOR

Global Markets

October was the third consecutive monthly decline of the ACWI, down 3.07%, and hitting the lows of February on the back of a broad-based global equity decline led by EMs and Europe. Cross asset, yields, gold, volatility and Bitcoin were some of the biggest gainers during October. Themes that took hold during October include (1) Yields (especially long-dated) spiking to levels last seen in 2007; (2) the Israel-Hamas war outbreak driving Brent higher and regional equities lower; (3) The Israel-Hamas war outbreak driving Brent higher and regional equities lower; (4) mixed but overall upbeat regulatory framework progress rumors; and (4) mixed but overall upbeat earnings season, on track to mark the first aggregate earnings growth since 3Q2022. Here are more notable bull and bear factors during October:

Bull Factors

- Annual inflation measure doing well: PCE index fell to an annual rate of 3.7% in September, down from 3.8% in August and its lowest in two years
- Profits at China's industrial firms increased for a second consecutive month in September
- 30 Chinese publicly traded companies pledged to repurchase their shares
- Chinese government plans to issue additional sovereign debt and an increase in the budget deficit ratio
- JPMorgan and Bloomberg Intelligence indicated that all signs point towards a Bitcoin ETF approval by the end of January 2024
- China's economy grew at a faster-than-expected pace in the third quarter, expanding by 4.9% y/y
- US economy grew at the fastest pace in nearly two years in Q3 by 4.9% y/y on a burst of consumer spending.

Bear Factors

- MoM measure of inflation re-accelerating: PCE accelerated m/m to 0.3% from 0.1%; US CPI increased 0.4% m/m in September and the core rose 0.3%, with the former hotter than projected
- The US 10-year yield breaking above the psychological 5% for the first time last week since 2007
- Inverted yield curve re-steepening
- Fed Chair Jerome Powell insinuates the rate-hiking cycle isn't over even as he guides for a "no hike" in the upcoming November meeting.
- Joe Biden urged America's Congress to approve a military-aid package for Israel and Ukraine reportedly worth more than $100bn.
- Global investors dumping Chinese stocks
- Chinese investors offloaded the most US bonds and stocks in four years in August

Outlook & Risks

The US economy keeps firing, especially on the consumer/household side, and its manufacturing PMI has surprisingly escaped contraction as Europe's (including the UK) manufacturing remains under water. While China's Q3 GDP growth surprised on the upside, the latest PMIs disappointed.

The earnings season continues to provide market impetus but by the end of the first week of November, most of the biggest names would have filed their numbers. Nvidia remains one of the most anticipated reports when it reports later this November.

Meanwhile, the main risk factors to watch include the following:

- The risk of more rate hikes, given the market has effectively priced out further hikes:
 - Higher rates for longer" increase the risk of long and variable lags
- Moderating core inflation measures though still above central banks' target.
- Persistently weak manufacturing activity globally.
- Rising oil prices (but this generally bodes well for the GCC region).
- War outbreak in the region – Israel v. Hamas.
- China's indebted real estate sector.
- Student loan repayment resumption in the US could tame the consumer economy – expected to subtract 0.4% from consumer spending in 2024.
- Washington dysfunction.

Regional Markets

Both Brent crude prices and GCC markets fell in October, although oil prices spiked at the onset of the Israel-Hamas war. The US responded by loosening sanctions on Venezuela, easing some of the supply pressures caused by the conflict – it has since threatened to reverse the move in response to the latest political developments in Venezuela. While risk of the war escalating remains, there seems to be some restraint on the greater Middle East plus overwhelming calls for a ceasefire by the UN General Assembly could potentially thaw tensions. All GCC indices closed lower led by the QSE.
